Campaign

J,

I am writing with regard to our recent undertaking – although we might, in fact, term it the very opposite of an undertaking – to disseminate the instructions necessary to our initiative concerning the near and further future our circle of like-minded individuals. As I believe I informed you at the time, I trusted you to ensure that such a project could be designed so as to guarantee that all necessary conditions for inclusion in this select group would be met; it has, however, been suggested that our initiative has been compromised: we may, in the end, be forced to consider ██████ those involved in this campaign should we prove unable to maintain an appropriate level of confidentiality, security, and above all faithfulness to our original objective. To this end, you are encouraged – not solely by me, but also by the entirety of the Central Committee as well as the Chair Entities of the Board – to complicate the next phase of this campaign and to include a satisfactory amount of both informative and strongly challenging material – the ideal outcome should be a tiered progression that might be described as both a process of Erziehung and as a concours; an emphasis for all participants to pursue a common aim, yet an aim of a selective nature. They may initially be mere ██████ when this campaign is properly launched; yet they shall emerge as wiser and stronger individuals in a way that shall prove the old adage true: in labore ultima veritas, vincit veritas in omni re.

I trust that we shall not have to contact you again on this matter,

M
